

Absent World

Original title: Un monde absent

On the other side of the world, in Patagonia, southern Chile, is a town called Puerto Aysén. In this region, where nature has been protected for many years, foreign investors are now opening construction sites for a new industrial Eldorado: a large scale salmon farm and an immense aluminium factory will soon be built. How do the Patagonians respond to this? Torn between resignation and fighting, they share their points of view.
