

And Tomorrow, The Whole World

Original title: En morgen, heel de wereld

An intimate documentary about four young refugees on the verge of adulthood. They live together in a community home in Mechelen, Belgium, but once they turn 18 they must leave, to live and work independently. And Tomorrow, The Whole World is a narrative about teenagers' lives after they flee their home countries. It is a story about dreams and, most importantly, about the search for a future in a new country.
