

Beauty and the Right to the Ugly

Original title: Beauty and the Right to the Ugly

Beauty and the Right to the Ugly is a cinematic experiment set in the multifunctional community centre Het Karregat in Eindhoven. Designed by architect Frank Van Klinger and completed in 1974, Het Karregat, situated in the centre of a neighbourhood of new housing, was an open-plan space where different activities and functions - a library, a school, a café, a health centre, a supermarket and communal area - would be connected under the same superstructure.
