

Bitter Sweet

Original title: Het bitterste zoet

Bitter Sweet is a documentary about struggling with mononucleosis - about wanting to conform but not having enough energy to meet social expectations. In the confinement of her bedroom the filmmaker exercises, sleeps, looks around and films every day. In this prison of banality, the window and a computer screen are the only views of the outside world. Sincere Skype calls offer an intimate view into the filmmaker's life which confronts the audience with its own vulnerability. As a result, this diary film opens a dialogue on a kind of suffering that usually remains hidden.
