

Cash For Trash

Original title: Urbanus De Vuilnisheld

A village is confronted by environmental and financial crises. Urbanus is in love with his teacher and is saving up for a diamond ring so that he can ask her to marry him. The adults have messed up: because of their greed, the village has turned into one big rubbish tip and everyone is bankrupt. Led by Urbanus, the children revolt and take over power. The conflict between generations and the global financial problems are satirised using an anarchic style and humour.
