

Dialing the Devil

Original title:

Of course when you make a road movie, your most important prop is the car. Like there's no Dukes of Hazard without the Dodge Charger or no A Team without their Dodge van, Dialing the Devil needed it's own distinctive set of roaring wheels. So as soon as the script was written, Toon started looking for some classic American cars of the seventies. Luckily he found some contacts who were glad to help him and some of the owners even ended up playing a little role in the movie !
