

Dissonant

Original title: Dissonant

The withdrawn 13-year-old Marino lives with his reticent father Tony on an old shipyard. While Tony is hard at work towing hefty ship engines, Marino ambles the muddy and often squalid yard for hours on end, searching for sounds to capture on his cassette recorder. In this vague and dreary existence, it seems that communication between the two is non-existent. But one day Marino finds his father playing a cassette in his office: it is a tape loaded with memories that will forever change the way they deal with their mourning and grief.
