

Floodland

Original title: Grenslanders

On the remote border region between the Netherlands and Flanders, a mysterious African girl is found wandering around on the Flemish side. As the charming but nonchalant Belgian court psychiatrist Bert Dewulf (50) is brought in to find out what happened to the deeply traumatised girl, Tara Dessel, a Dutch police inspector of mixed descent, investigates a bloody shootout on a yacht. It soon turns out that there is a connection between the two cases. The girl is being hunted by a merciless gang of human traffickers from whom she has escaped. When Tara and Bert start to collaborate on the case, they discover that the borderlanders have had their own way of handling foreigners for centuries.
