

George & Paul

Original title: George & Paul

In the world of George and Paul, everything - including themselves - is created out of wooden blocks. George and Paul have many great adventures, in which they use their environment to create things and to solve problems. In their world, everything is possible; it all depends on the creativity, technical skills and imagination of these two friends. In the end, everything in life comes down to having fun. Enjoy it and think positive!
