

Kursk

Original title: Kursk

The Russian crew of a nuclear-powered cruise missile submarine, the K-141 Kursk, is participating in a naval exercise when an old test torpedo explodes, sinking the sub to the bottom of the ocean. With the front half of the sub destroyed and the majority of the crew killed, Dimitri Kolesnikov and the remaining men in the back of the Kursk are forced to try and survive on their own until the Russian Navy sends help. Even though the Russian government's rescue attempts are failing due to inadequate technology, the bureaucrats at the top still refuse to accept the help of the American, British, and Norwegian navies. It's a race against time as the Russians are forced to choose between national pride and saving the lives of their countrymen.
