

Marching in the Dark

Original title: Marching in the Dark

In drought-struck rural areas of India, chemical farming has led to soil depletion and the disappearance of traditional agriculture: thousands of desperate farmers have already died by suicide. Amidst this slow genocide, 15 widow farmers have taken a pledge with psychologist and activist Dr Potdar: what they went through shouldn't happen to anyone else. Sanjeevani felt helpless after the death of her husband. Today she is determined to to change things.
