

Monachopsis

Original title: Monachopsis

Debbie has no deep connection with the people in her life. Yet she has a great need for intimacy. Everything changes for her when she meets Sofie. At first, this new person seems as unreachable and shadowy as the others. But through a simple, tactile gesture, a connection is made. The two become friends. Debbie is so happy with this bond that she wants to do everything to save it. But her fear of losing again what she has been missing increases.. That is why she starts to behave in a compulsive way, causing Sofie to break away. In retaliation, Debbie injures her own eyes - she would rather be blind than not see anyone clearly. Sofie returns to contact Debbie and the friendship between the two is restored. Although she is blind, Debbie also finds a new connection with her other friends and the world around her.
