

Pauline & Paulette

Original title: Pauline & Paulette

Pauline, a 66-year-old little girl - she cannot read or write, doesn't even talk correctly - lives in a Flemish village between Brussels and the Belgian Coast. It is Martha, her oldest sister, who takes care of her since the death of their parents. One day, Martha dies. Martha has left a will: the result of the sale of her house and also her legacy will go to the one of her two sisters who will take care of Pauline. Both are interested by the will, but neither Paulette - who has a ladies clothes' shop in the village - nor Cécile, who lives in Brussels, wants to take care of Pauline. Although Pauline is in full admiration of Paulette. But Paulette doesn't have the time and is tired of sending Pauline back whenever she comes to see her in the shop. Will Pauline finally convince Paulette? Cécile and Paulette, will they inherit? And if so... what?
