

Saints

Original title: Saints

Saints is a film about a small island becoming part of a bigger world. St Helena is the second most remote island in the world - 2,000 km from the nearest landmass - and it takes five days to reach its shores. However, this is all about to change. In October 2011, the British Government announced the construction of an international airport on the island. Now the 4,000 remaining inhabitants, who call themselves 'Saints', are preparing for a new future. Over the course of three years, we follow a few Saints in their daily lives as they try to cope with the changes that are coming their way. While fishermen face the competition of large foreign fishing vessels, small hotel owners are faced with the construction of five star boutique hotels alongside them.
