

Spectres

Original title: Spectres

Fifty years after his assassination, Patrice Lumumba, Prime Minister of the newly independent Congo, is back to haunt Belgium. Through commemorations, lectures and a return visit, a top-ranking Belgian civil servant who was in Elisabethville on that bloody day of January 17, 1961, attempts to conjure the spectres of the past. To the sound of Bach's St John Passion, Spectres plunges us into one of the blackest days of the Belgian Congo's decolonisation.
