

Stasis

Original title: Stasis

An unidentified number of men engage in a strange interaction with a table. It begins in a half darkened room with close-up shots of feet, legs and table legs. Slowly the camera zooms out to reveal 33 men in suits, solemnly holding four tables above the ground with their mouths. Gradually, we see the tables and men stacked on top of one another. The film ends with a monumental pyramid-shaped stack of tables and men. The top of the pyramid has the smallest table with only four men holding it. Although these men cannot eat or talk, it is obvious a certain dialogue is taking place.
