

With a Thousand Eyes

Original title: With a Thousand Eyes

In recent years, public space has been engulfed by electronic screens, from mobile phones to tablets. One of the best places to observe the ubiquity of the screen is at a tourist site, where people are trying to capture the monument and nowadays, more than ever, themselves. While searching for their perfect portrait, the people in this film are connected through a cinematic dance, while their surroundings slowly dissolve into dark and they into their own screens.
